HEALTH AND WELLNESS Fuel Up to Play 60 (FUTP 60) is dairys best success story when it comes to advancing health and wellness among youth At its core, FUTP 60 is an in-school health and wellness program designed to engage and empower youth to take action for their own health by implementing long-term, positive changes for themselves, their schools and beyond Customizable and non-prescriptive program components are grounded in research with youth, including tools and resources, in-school promotional materials, a website and student engagement activities Launched nationally in 2009, FUTP 60 was founded by the National Dairy Council (NDC) and the National Football League (NFL), in collaboration with the U S Department of Agriculture Since that time it has grown into the largest health and wellness program in schools across the country and is currently active in more than 73,000 schools that is three-fourths of all the schools in the United States reaching more than 38 million students The program has helped to increase demand for school environments that support proper nutrition and physical activity The program has not only been well received by schools as it helps them improve the school health and wellness environment, but also has been embraced by those outside of the dairy industry who see the value of engaging in the program including many other health and nutrition organizations Our success with FUTP 60 goes beyond healthy eating and physical activity in schools It is about the total health of the child, from the hungry to healthy, which includes the connection between health and academic achievement - or the "learning connection" - to telling the story of how dairy foods get from the farm to the table
